TO THE PEOPLE OF TENNESSEE.

In placing myself before the country as a can In placing myself beline the country as a cau didate for United States Senator I feel that it is not improper for me briefly to refer to the motives untion. I then thought they were sincere in their which have prompted my course, and to state the principles by which I shall be governed if honored with your confidence.

It is known to you that I have not heretofore sought pulitical honors. That I have actively part cipated in all the great political stroggles through which the country has passed for many years is not unknown to the Democracy of my immediate neighborhood; but my participation has been that of a soldier in the ranks, neither asking nor receiving any share in the fruits of within the gates of the city, I received Gen. Hence the blindness with which he rushed into the extremes of injustice and wrong towards me, which proved so fatal to his own reputation for justice towards his aubordinates in command, and which had well nigh ruined the humble individu al who now addresses von.

It will be seen from this narrative of events that all my triels and persecutions; all the false hoods and calumnies heaped upon me in con-enence of my rupture with Gen. Scott; all the blackening and defamatory charges by which he sought to strip me of the humble honor of my ser ices, and to di-grace me as a man of honor; all the poison infused into the mind of the nation by the party press; that all this obloquy was heaped pon me because I carnestly protested against be corrup Paebla negotiations, and the armis tice, (a part of lt,) which cost the army the live so many brave men, and because I made known a the President, as I was in honor bound to do ne existence of these disgraceful proceedings.

Hence it will be seen that instead of having aused the rupture between the President and Gen. Scott and Mr. Trist, from an officious and intermeddling disposition, as I was charged to have done, I was engaged in a sacred duty to my ountry in all that I did. And, though I was so greatly wronged by the press and by public opin ion, such were my confidential relations to the Government and to this mission that I could neither expose the motives of those who sought to destroy me nor the sense of duty which conrolled my conduct.

In my defense of the charges against me I was mpelled to confine myself to the charges them selves, trusting to the future for the vindication of my motives, and the fidelity with which I met the responsibilties of my position as the confideu

The reader will be astonished when he hears the true history of the note from which this extract a made, which is this: On the afternoon of the 19th of August, when the strong post at Contreras was invested, Gen. Pillow being the senior atfi cer of the troops designated for service against that post, this General, as he almost proved he fore the Court of Inquiry subsequently, in an inter-view with General, then Colonel, Riley, suggested, as it would appear, somewhat in the way of a query. Can you not (with your regiment) get into the rear of the enemy and make an assaul there?" Gen Riley's recollection was by no means clear as to what General Pillow said, and there?" was plain that nothing that could be called a plan of battle was suggested, much less ordered Gen Riley did, however succeed in reaching the rear of Contrerss, and there repulsed handsome by a charge of Mexican horse; but no assault was made upon Contreras

That evening, as already stated, Gen. Smith pro posed a night movement, by which a body of men was to be thrown in position for a daylight same timber beyond the position reached by Gen Riley the day before, and this was the plan in which Gen Pillow, as declared to Mr. Tr no confidence. The plan succeeded, and Contrers fell easily into the passession of our farces, though occupied by 5,000 chaice trapps, with some wenty pieces of artilery, under command of Gen tia. one of the most distinguished of Mexi co's Generals. Scott's statement, was Gen. I wiggs, who pleasantly and that if gentlemen in the city of Mexico proposed to be bribed he saw no reason why that should not be bribed he.

Now, the reader will please mark what follow

The next General who expressed his opinion was Gideon J. Pillow, and I find that my note in reference to his remarks is in these words: "Gen. Pillow came out very fully in support of the measure, only stipulating, as a condition, that the United States should have such a treaty as was designed?"

I have a defined and Gen. Scott had undertaken the united and delicate task of making a general report of the operations of the army in the valley of Mexico, for which purpose he was obliged to read very carefully the reports of the various commanders who had respectively report and nountheir own operations, he fell upon their nt I well remember that he rose from his sent report of Gen. Pillow upon the taking of Contre and earnestly spoke for some time in layor of the scheme. There was not the slightest intigrossly false claim therein set up of having planmation from him that there was anything wrong ed the method of assault by which that place was in acceding to the proposals from the city of Mex laken, having certain knowledge that the plan mith, under circum it, and I venture to say that no one who heard Gen Scott to assign the honor to Gen. Smith, to in imagined that he ever had, or was likely to whom it was due, and thinking or hoping that Gen. Pillow's sense of justice needed nothing but hint to induce him to modify his report, he wrote a private note to him, calling his attention to an inidvertency, by which, if unchanged, ar injury might be done to Gen. Smith. and asked him to reconsider his report. To Gen. Scott's great surprise Gen P. declined to change his port, and reiterated his pretension that the bat le had been fought in accordance with his plan in this state of things Gen. Scott determined to nake another effort, and addressed another private note to Gen. Pillow, and reasoned the point with him, urging him to so modify his report as not to interfere with the just claims of Gen. Smith; and here it was that Gen. Scott, in a spirit of kindness and conciliation, condescended to apeal to Gen. Pillow's better feelings, if he had iny, and professed his earnest wish to mainta ally relations with him on any term consist ent with justice and honor, as if he had said: You ire fusely attempting to deprive Gen. Smith of ionor- justly belonging to him, and it is my duty to see justice done to all of the officers of the rmy; as to yourself, I honor your good qualities and desire to maintain friendly relations with you ut, mark, only on terms consistent with justice and honor. Who does not see that this is the true spirit of the earnest desire so fraudulently paraded of Gen. Scott to secure the friendship of his sec nd in command? To any eye but one bleared by vanity or blind d by moral obliquity the note from Gen. Scott was one of the most insulting that could have een penned It expressed a condition for the maintenance of friendly relations which, to a consciously right-minded man, would have gone to the heart with the effect of a two-edged the money, adding that he would assist him I contained a plain implication that Gen. Pillow might be a dishonest man—that he might be capa ble of robbing a brother soldier of his justly acquired

The end sufficently illustrates the characters of the two men. Gen Pillow persisted in his pretensions; and Gen Scott, as he could not main in friendly relations with him "consistently with a-tice and honor," dropped those relations; and now, whole years having intervened, Gen. Pillow would have his renders believe that Gen. Scott ought most auxiously his triendship. But I must desist from further comments upo is discreditable address, filled as it is with art ully stated half truths, which are often a species I most detestable falsehoods, and leave to others he task, if any one thinks it worth while, to show bow preposterous it is in Gen. Pillow to criticise the operations of the army nuder Gen. Scott, mak ng his comments upon circumstances only brough to light after the necomplishment of the event referred to Who does not know what sort of apacity it requires to plan operations after the fact, and show how much better things might have been done? Thus Gen. Pillow finds fault with the armistice granted by Gen. Scott to the would at least have laid the whole matter before the Commanding General, and profess to act only with his tull knowledge. But Gen. Pillow accepted the degrading position tendered him by the President, and now claims credit for his services as "the confidential officer" whose public position gave him access to the presence of his and was actually in bed the next morning when the as-

THOMAS M. GREEN, Baltor.

Subjoined we publish a communiwhich should be most properly applied. Democrat of the old anti-Bank school, and a strenuous advocate of the sub-Treasury system-both of which measures have been fully discussed in this and other public journals many years ago. Being our self an old Whig in political faith we are far from agreeing with our respected correspondent that the banking system of the country is "intrinsically a vicious one." It is, undoubtedly, subject to some abuses, but it is, nevertheless, a system without which commerce can never flourish or prosper. Without the system of issuing notes on a specie basis we would not have more than one third of the trade we now have. All that the banks need is one great mother bank to hold them all in check and prevent the rascality which is often practised by some who are engaged in the business. They need a regulator, and the present crisis proves conclusively to our mind the necessity of a United States Bank, but is far from causing us for one instant to doubt the principle we have always held to, that banks are necessary in order to carry on trade and commerce. There is not near enough currency in the country, including both specie and paper, to carry on our commerce. How ther would it be if this currency were reduced two thirds? Manifestly the result would be to injure trade. But we do not pur pose entering into any argument upon the subject, our only motive being to dissen from some of the opinions advanced in the communication which we have consented to publish. Some of our readers will, per haps, agree with our correspondent, and to them we recommend a perusal of his ar

For the Commonwealth. The Louisville Journal of Scotember the 29th in an article the caption of which is "the money crisis, its causes and remedy," contains among other admitted truths this: "It is true that we have built houses and have embellished the land with colleges and churches and humane and be nevolent institutions, all of which have made inac tive and for many purposes useless an immense amount of capital which otherwise would have been active and of incalculable value at this juncture,' If the capital which was used in building these structures was either accumulated capital or borrowed at home, I do not understand how it rendered inactive any which would have been active at this juncture. It must have been paid to others for materials and labor. It was thus active by passing into other hands? The circu lating medium was not diminished, but diffused. If credit and not capital was used the borrower might become embarrassed, but still the money ed would as in the case of accumulate at home for the use of those who had it in possession, and of others who had credit to borrow it. It seems to me that it was not made inactive by being used. Hoarded or inactive capital at junc tures like the present may become active to the great relief of the community, by passing from the coffers of the capitalist into the circulation of the country. There may have been "no sufficient and reasonable cause for the present wide spead panic and the ruin which has followed in its train " And it may be true that "after all. the great fact remains, that the currency and com merce of the country are intrinsically sound." Yet I believe we have too little of the one (me talic,) and too much of the other (foreign.) We have borrowed too much money abroad, and imported too many goods. Gold and silver only are the productions of the soil, and some few manufactures will answer for payment. Our pa per currency (bank promises to pay) are utterly valueless abroad. And it is a well-established fact that a paper currency usurps the place of gold and silver which leave the country to liqui date foreign balances against it.

A paper currency always blinds the eyes, even of merchants, to the true relations of commerce When paper currency is abundant they import largely and receive payment in paper as it it was money. But when they have to make payment. the paper will not answer, and any deficit of pro duction has to be supplied from the vaults of the banks. The metal there is generally not more than sufficient to supply the home demand, and consequently when the foreign debt of the mer chants is great, or of borrowers for any purposes, such as building railroads, the banks are driven to suspension, or they become insolvent. It is infinitely better for the country that the banks should suspend specie payments, with the gold and silver in their vaults, and let the imprudent importers become bankrupt, than to pay out and send out of the country the specie necessary to sustain the internal commerce by discounts to their customers in their notes ultimately redeemable; and to enable them to do so for a limited time when suspension would forfeit their charter, the legis latures of the States should be convened for the express purpose of granting them a dispensation. There is no other mode of sustaining a mixed and intrinsically vicious system. All these difficulties and disasters might have been avoided by a slight addition to the so called sub-treasury system, which was urged upon Mr Van Buren before its adoption, but he recommended the general system without incorporating into it a feature deemed by its originators of the utmost im-

Religious Despetism. Of all the laise assumption set up by that poron of immigrants to this country who are embraced in the Roman Catholic communion, none exceeds in error and audacity, the claim set up by the ignorant laity, as well as by the crafty priests, that the Church of Rome is the founder and patron of Religious Liberty. Such an as sumption bluntly contradicts the impartial records of History. This pretence is the invention of a descripte price blurge blurgely. Subjoined we publish a communication from an old and highly respectable and intelligent citizen of Franklin county, which gives his views as to the cause of the present money panic, and the remedy liberty and submit fully to its priesthood, are Ig uorauce, Superstition and Poverty. It blasts the Our readers will perceive by the tone of the communication that the writer is a the communication that the writer is a liberty. Rags and filth, vice and ignorance, are the sure indications of its predominance over individuals or nations. Look at imbecile Austria, unhappy Italy, and impoverished Spain, and cal-cutate the financial value of the Church of Rome. Does it confer blessings upon those peoples, over whom it has exclusive control? How are they off for Liberty, either political or religious? What is their social couditiou? Are the lazzaro ui of the Italiau States, the mendicants that be siege the traveler in the capital of Spain, and the capty coffers of Austria, the monumeuts to shich the Church of Rome points for proof of its beneficent political economy? Contrast the thrilty Scottish mountaineer with the squalid subject of the Church of Rome in Ireland—or compare the Protestant Irish with the Roman Catholics on the same fertile Island. Is there not a "distinct tion with a difference" strongly marked? Cau heir physical, social, and moral difference, which are so vastly to the advantage of the Protestant, re accounted for on any other ground than upon au the religious systems which they respectively eutertain, and which affect their lives and con duct? Compare enterprising, intelligent New England with miserable Mexico. New Eng and—a cold and comparatively sterile section in the New World, occupied by savages, was ettled by Protestant refugees, under great sudvantages, more than a hundred years after viexico was taken possession of by the Roman catholies. The latter country was warm and ruitful, abounded in mineral wealth, and was in nabited by a people who possessed many of the New England, Iree, vigorous, thrifty, intelligen and happy-every State in the Union is deeply un her debt for the leaven of true men. Mexico-qualid, dark, and although possessing Freedom s destitute of prosperity or untional content ment. New England, with Protestant freedom, among all her disauvantages, possesses tentolomore of the elements of Empire, than does Mex o with her Roman Catholic Liberty. We might the other contrasts equally startling. Is not the Papal Hierarchy is the persevering and consistent enemy of religious freedom and national pros-erity? Is it the least surprising that a religiou-acti which deprives the soul of its rights and ois freedom, accessarily consigns the body to de gradation and menial servitude? Are not the ies of Ronish superstition and oppression on he one hand, and on the other, the heroic energy which is the fruit of Protestant independence crishing influences of the administration of the Coman Catholic creed, by its fat, lecherous, wineabbing, high tempered priests, we point with on and to the Almshouses and prisons, eight-tentle of whose inmates were nursed at the breast of Popery, and with the other we turn your attention to the tax-roll, that you may see the enor mous contributions which Romanism levies upon Protestant industry for the support of Romish crime and pauperism. And yet with all these facts in existence, a Romish priest in our city has the unblushing impudence to demand that a public institution—the Almshouse shall be conducted according to his dicta tion, and that Protestant clergymen shall be virtually excluded therefrom, who have been nvited to visit it under the rules, in strict accordance with true Religious Liberty. And he, with the craft common to Jesuits, strive-to make it appear that Religious Liberty consists in the despotism which he seeks to establish over the inmates of the Jersey City Almshouse. He need not hope, under the circumstances, to effect his purpose. The day for such Religious Despoti m among us has not yet arrived .- Jersey

The German Democrats of Milwaukie have enly rebuked this disgusting truckling to eignism, and have denounced the whole ticket It a meeting recently held by them they adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That the German electors of this State, and of this county, have always been most careful in presenting from their midst only trust worthy and capable men as candidates for office to be voted for by ourselves and our fellow citi zeus, and that, if the nomination of Carl Habicl or State Treasurer, made by the late Democratic State convention, was intended to satisfy the just claims of the German Democratic electors, who ompose a majority of the party, we most deci dedly repudiate the same.

The foreign birth trick of the Democratic wireullers does not seem to be successful. SEWING MACHINES. THE greatest objection to Skwine Machines has at last been overcome, viz: The high price. The subscrib-ers are about to introduce to the notice of the public

A SEWING MACHINE,

At The Low Price of Thirty-Five Dollars.

This is but one third the former price of an effective and good Machine, and will do the work of an hundred dollar Machine, and Jo it well. For family use, or use on a plantation this Machine has no equal, as it is simple in its construction and easily managed. It will do the work of five or six expert seams reseas.
